

PRESS RELEASE

TIME

APRIL 22, 2002

SUMMARY

- Medicine: Has clinical testing turned us into human guinea pigs?
- Diplomacy: Can Colin Powell forge peace in the Middle East?
- South Pacific: Corruption and reform go head to head as Papua New Guinea prepares for election
- Business: Has the merger with AOL slowed down TIME WARNER?
- Arts & Entertainment: Architect Glenn Murcutt; Sydney Nolan; No Man's Land

COVER STORY: HUMAN GUINEA PIGS

Some patients join clinical trials out of desperation, others to help advance modern medicine. But has medical testing gone too far, and who is to blame when the outcome proves fatal? Michael Lemonick & Andrew Goldstein look at what can go wrong in these trials and at the health hazards subjects can face.

COLIN POWELL: MISSION IMPOSSIBLE?

As the chosen one sent to the Middle East by the Bush Administration, can Colin Powell accomplish his mission to forge a peace between the Palestinians and Israelis in the face of unquenchable hatred? Romesh Ratnesar & Massimo Calabresi report from aboard Powell's plane.

PAPUA NEW GUINEA: ELECTION FEVER

As election fever mounts, voters must choose between the easy rewards of corruption and the bitter medicine of reform. Will the nation cure its cancer or be killed by it? Elizabeth Feizkhah reports.

BUSINESS: THE ENGINE STALLS AT AOL

The merger with AOL was supposed to take Time Warner to new heights, not lows. Frank Gibney Jr. & Daniel Eisenberg examine the impact the online giant has had on the company's overall performance.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Belinda Luscombe looks at architect Glenn Murcutt, the first Australian to win the Pritzker Prize, and at his building that magnify the beauties of a difficult landscape. Michael Fitzgerald examines a new book that takes a fresh look at Sydney Nolan, one of Australia's most acclaimed painters. And, film critic Richard Schickel reviews No Man's Land and proclaims it "emotionally potent".

CONTACT: MICHELLE SHAO

For further information and to arrange local and international interviews,
Phone 02-9925-2558. Our website address is www.timepacific.com